The remainder of the day was devoted to running through the docket and disposing of and assigning cases and at 3:15 suspended until Wednesday forenoon.

The first part of Wednesday forenoon was devoted to naturalizing citizens. Those naturalized were Daniel McMaster of Rumford, Daniel Theodore Anderson of Norfork of Hebron, Alfred Edward Jones of Rumford and Spurgeon Charles Lexton of Rumford.

The first case to come before a jury was the Rumford and Upton, pauper case. This case was tried at the March term of court, went before the jury court and a new trial granted. A special jury was drawn for the hearing and was made up of Stuart W. Goodwin, foreman, A. E. Johnson, Canton; Horace Dismore, Norway; F. W. Brown, Lowell; Perley R. T. Bradbury, Denmark; J. Hayward Ring, Greenwood; Elliott Rich, Bethel; Clayton E. Spring, Brownfield; Treat M. Howard, Dixfield; W. R. Glover, Sumner; Harry E. Jordan, Bethel; Perley Dudley, Buckfield.

The counsel for the town of Rumford were James B. Stephenson and Aretas E. Stearns, for the defendant town, Upton, James S. Wright and Alton C. Wheeler of South Paris.

The case was set forth by J. B. Stephenson, who claimed that the town of Upton owed the town of Rumford for a bill of goods which were provided Mrs. George R. Campbell and the jury was to determine whether George R. Campbell had a pauper settlement in Upton. George R. Campbell was the first witness in the case. He claimed he came to Upton when about a year old and spent his boyhood there up to the time his mother died, in February 28, 1897. He was married that fall and from the time his mother died for the next few years, he spent a short time in Dallas then a short time at his old home in Upton on Rabbit Knowl, where he claimed his household goods, the goods his mother left him, had remained.

G. L. Douglas of Upton the selectman of the town, showed the tax books and the election for taxes made against George R. Campbell from the time he was of age up to 1908 with the exception of two years. He also produced the voters list.

F. B. Martin the treasurer of Rumford brought into court the check book showing the date when the town paid $148.50 on account of Mrs. Geo. R. Campbell. The defense was begun during the middle of the afternoon, Wednesday. Hon. James S. Wright put the case before the jurors stating that the bill of $147.50 was paid by Rumford to a Rumford hospital for services rendered Mrs. George R. Campbell, which was admitted as right and proper, but claim that Mr. Campbell had broken his continued residence in Upton.

The principal witnesses for the defense was the first wife of G. R. Campbell, Mrs. Jennie Steward of Strong. Her testimony was brought in to prove that Campbell had not held a continued residence in Upton. She and Campbell were married October 3, 1897, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Campbell at Dallas. She had known him as a child as he came to her home and on June 14, 1897 she became engaged to him and with the consent of her parents they were married, she being less than 13 years of age. She claimed that an arrangement had been made with her folks, that if she married him they were to stay there at her home so she could be at home and attend school. Soon after their marriage they went to her sister's and from then on made trips back and forth from Upton to Dallas and Andover. She claimed the only furniture there was on the Rabbit Knowl place was an old straw bed on the floor in the corner, a chair back nailed to a box, home made cross legged table and an old stove, also a few old broken dishes. Here they spent the winter of 1897-98 and moved from there in the spring to the Lane house, then to Dallas again.

Fred O. Godwin of Albion formerly a store keeper at Upton, witnessed that he knew Campbell and bought sheep from about 1893 and that Campbell told him he was going to move away.

There were several other witnesses to testify in the case before it would come to the jury.

Stuck in Main Street Mud.
Just think of it! Two autos stalled in the mud six times last Saturday at the junction of Main and Cottage street.

Is there any doubt about the sanity of Ralph Butts in circulating a subscription paper last spring among the public spirited Norway citizens to raise money to keep Main street passable.

None in the least.

Rare Books.
On account of the great interest that he has in the spiritual welfare of his friend, Captain Charles Dunham of South Paris, was recently presented to Judge C. P. Whitman a rare copy of a religious work by Rev. Samuel Hutchinson, who for a period lived in the town of Buckfield, where Mr. Whitman was born.

The book is a small volume of some 200 pages, and was printed by Asa Barton at Norway in 1827 who had moved the plant of the Oxford Observer from Paris Hill to this village by ox team in the night.

Mr. Whitman is trying to procure a copy of the "Breches" bible, which is one of the rarest editions of the sacred book in existence to present with his sincere regards to Captain Dunham.

Her parents came here from Palmouth and were Quakers. They made the journey from Palmouth here, some after they were married, coming all the way on horseback. The first house was a log cabin standing on the opposite side of the road from the present dwelling, where several of the older children were born, but Mrs. Ryerson, being the youngest but one, was born in the house now standing.

The funeral was held from the home on October 11 at 1:30 p. m. Rev. C. G. Miller, was the attending clergyman. The bearers were Edward Witt, Alfred Whitehouse, Alvin Brown and Harlan Brown. Burial took place in the Pine Grove cemetery.

Conant vs. G. T. Ry.

The law court has handed down a recept in the Oxford County case of Albert A. Conant versus the Grand Trunk Railway company, giving judgement for the defendant.

Action on the case to recover damages to a Ford automobile resulting from a collision between it and the defendant's train, on September 27, 1912, at above five o'clock in the afternoon, at Hicks Crossing, in the town of Norway. The case comes up on report of the evidence.

The automobile came along the street toward the crossing at the rate of about twenty miles an hour and struck the side of the tender on the crossing causing the damage complained of. The evidence shows conclusively that there was gross carelessness in the management of the automobile as it approached the crossing, and that all the people in it were negligent.

The evidence shows that the required signals by whistle and the ringing of the bell were given by the train as it approached the crossing.

Where no request has ever been made of a railroad corporation under Revised Statutes Chapter 51, Section 71, to maintain a flagman, or gates or automatic signals at a railroad crossing, the railroad company is not to be held negligent, as a matter of law in not maintaining such.

Virgil E. Dunn and Miss Ethel F. Upton, both of Norway were quietly married in the early evening of Tuesday, October 12th, at the Methodist parsonage on Pearl street. Rev. H. L. Nichols was the officiating clergyman, using the single ring service of his church. The bride was becomingly attired in a traveling suit of blue.

Both parties are well-known throughout the town, Mr. Dunn being the senior partner of the Norway Lake Supply company, and Miss Upton, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olin B. Upton of Upton Ridge, is a trained nurse of wide experience in her profession.

The Last Pipeful of Sickie Is as Fresh as the First

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickie that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

A RECENT VISIT TO A CITY EAR AND EYE SPECIALIST.

I recently visited Portland. Went in an auto as a gentleman should and passed out ten cent cigars to my friends while at home a less expensive smoke will do. This is eminently proper if it does add to the increased cost of living which is so much harped upon these days.

Riding in an expensive car and smoking a cheap cigar isn't good. Don't do it. I didn't on this trip. Don't never intend to unless possibly I might ride in a Ford, where I understand the fumes of a cheaper grade of tobacco will mix with gasoline. Not on a Reo and this was the car conveying me to the greatest seaport city on the coast of Maine.

The car was owned and driven by Dr. Geo. M. Whibley, 700 Congress street. He isn't a pill vendor, but a back breaker, after the school of Dr. Still of Missouri, where he studied three or four years to learn how to do it in the improved way called Osteopathy.

He didn't open the "cut out" coming up the Poland Spring House grade and consequently the sign that stared you in the face there to "shut-out cut-outs" was meaningless to him.

Beautiful scenery here and the Rickers own as far as the eye can reach and more to say nothing about the water that boils up from the earth and is sold for 30 to 50 cents a pint in big ees as prevalent here makes me shudder, cities the world over.

Such houses, well kept lawns and I felt the relator was stringing me and for once kept my mouth shut and was silent and I am to remain so. I pass it up as out of my class.

In due time we arrived in Portland and the good doctor showed me some of the beauty spots in the city. There are many of them and the drive about the town was exceedingly interesting but I felt nervous and somewhat out of place and glad when I got into the house away from the throng of people and the bustle of commerce.

No city life for me. The bucolic bleating of sheep in the wilderness has charms and a freedom not found in lovely Portland where expensive drapery are hung in the windows to keep neighbors from making unkind remarks about what you have on the table to eat. Give me the country, but then you sometimes have to go to the big town.

I went to please the Mrs. She has been accusing me of growing deaf and in due time we arrived in Portland and the good doctor showed me some of the beauty spots in the city. There are many of them and the drive about the town was exceedingly interesting but I felt nervous and somewhat out of place and glad when I got into the house away from the throng of people and the bustle of commerce.

So here I was calling on a noted ear and eye expert at 717 Congress street. I did whistle as I mounted the stone steps to his house that wouldn't do. I was smoking an expensive cigar as I pushed the celluloid button that woke up the inmates of the dismal house.

A modest appearing girl came to the door and I bowed stiffly and clumsily took off my hat as it is the way of the city. She told me the doctor was at home and showed me into a big room to the right that was pretty nearly barren of anything modern except copies of Elbert Hubbard's East Aurora publications.

She deftly asked my name and residence as she intuitively knew I was from somewhere and timidly I told her I was "F. W. Sanborn of Norway, Me." She disappeared with a cabinet filing card in her hand and I began sizing up an individual who was nervously holding down a chair, the antiquity of which preceded the Christian Era by some hours.

The man was soon summoned into the interior by the smiling doctor who spoke some reassuring words to me. I listened intently to a low inaudible conversation and the rattling of instruments, the drawing of shutters and shuffling of feet. A few minutes later two ladies and a small child were shown in by the lady attendant, who had been buying address circulars or letters on an old desk which would be a disgrace to any deserted attic up in Oxford County. The desk was neither convenient to work on or good looking and its only claims for being housed was its apparent age.

These new arrivals said they thought it strange they were sent here to be doctored when they had come to the hospital where they supposed they had doctors a plenty who could do things. They talked with each other in a deprecatory way while the child played with a white goat or small horse under the ancient legs of a thing doing duty as a center table. On it was a portion of a junk shop, iron ware and pottery flanked by Roycroft literature and medical journals. I looked over and read a page into the Fra and wondered if Elbert and Alice's bodies would wash ashore so their faces might again be photographed. I am sorry they are gone as they were good and useful people and their places could never be filled.

Obering the call of the doctor I passed into the inner room. I did not ask him if he could help me but I wanted to put him wise as to the real condition of my hearing so if future necessity required, I could use his testimony against the Mrs. assertions of my deafness. I was set in a chair surrounded by a startling array of unknown appliances which glistened and sparkled in the feeble light.

A stack of implements were being washed and put in order by the young lady before mentioned. Probably these were used on the patient who preceded me. This done she goes to the filing case and picks out three cards and lays them face up on the desk, bows politely and leaves the room.

The learned specialist plies me with questions and asks if we have long lived in Norway and if I know the late Frank A. Noble of Waterford, who was a relative of his wife and that he was on visiting terms with them. We replied in the affirmative and spoke kindly and truthfully of the good qualities of Mr. Noble's family.

He made sounding of our hearing and wrote down what he found on a filing card. A tuning fork was held to one ear and moved until I failed to detect its vibrations and markings were made on the card. A monstrous fork, bright and shiny was substituted for the smaller one, ticking of a watch, and the calling of numbers at various and sundry distances. After each examination pencil marks were made on the card.

The doctor was busy, smiling and good natured all the while looking wise and forceful. He placed a looking glass over an eye, which made him look frightful and proceeded with spoons, pinchers and iron bars to examine my throat and ask questions about the catarrh affliction of the head, etc. A probe holding cotton was run through the nostrils down into the throat and the passages swabbed out much as you would clean a gun barrel.

An electric light was passed through the nose into the throat and by the aid of mirrors an observation was taken of the internal hearing machinery therein contained.

It choked me some but not bad. A rubber tube with a nipple on either end was used. One end of the tube was placed in my ear and the other in the ear of the doctor. A hollow metal funnel properly bent was inserted through the nostril and worked round in the unseen recesses until it entered the eustachian tube and a collapsible air bulb placed on the funnel and the air driven in and my internal hearing machinery was expanded. The theory being this would aid in conducting the sounds gathered up by the external ear.

I felt a fullness in both ears for a few hours which gradually faded away. The kind doctor separated me from five dollars for 27 minutes work and requested me to call again for another treatment within two weeks for which the price will be $2.00. I expect to go and see the Mrs. along with me as it is an open secret in this office that she as editor of this paper hears and prints only about half the news that's going. I want the whole of it and our subscribers who pay their money in advance are entitled to it.

I am happy in saying my hearing has improved and I am now able to tell a Ford car from other makes of cars by sound provided both car are running in the same direction.

In Bad Shape but Hopeful of Recovery. Friend Sanborn:

The marked copy of your paper came yesterday and while I was not particularly impressed with the personal notice, yet I enjoyed the rest of the sheet. At anytime you feel that you can afford to donate a copy, it will be gratefully received. I will give you a correct list of my ailments so you can make a correct diagnosis of my illness, condition and chances of recovery.

My right lung is all shot to pieces; I have a constant, hacking, racking cough; am troubled with attacks of acute pleurisy in the t. b. side of my body; my heart is out of plumb and kilter; have developed a hernia on the left side of the abdomen from coughing; have a chronic appendix on the right side; my liver gets out of kilter; my kidneys are bad; my spine is lame and sore from being confined to the bed so much; my stomach has gone back on me; my abdomen is sore from coughing and my throat raw from the same cause; my voice sounds like one of those old worn wax phonograph records and I weigh less than 90 pounds. Outside of the above I believe I am all right every way.

Sincerely,
P. S. Excuse me I forgot, I have a hard corn on the little toe of my right foot.

Glenwood

Glenwoods are always Brim Full of New Wrinkles

The Glenwood Balanced Baking Damper is far ahead of any other—it is as positive as the turning of a railroad switch—open to start the fire, closed to bake—just this one damper for kindling or baking and best all, it can't warp or stick.

The Glenwood Revolving Coal Grate is easy to shake at all times, and simply fine for removing clinkers. It is triangular in shape, with three different sides for wear.

The Glenwood Sectional Top is interchangeable—cross pieces can not warp—a wash boiler can be placed at the back as well as in front for quick heating, leaving the front holes free for cooking.

The Glenwood Shelf Under Oven Door is not stationary—it automatically raises and lowers as oven door is opened or closed. It is always level with oven bottom—a great convenience when basting meats or removing food.

The Ash Pan rests on a roller bearing frame—just open door and it rolls out at the slightest touch, neat and clean.

Glenwood Iron is smooth and perfect—the easiest of any to clean—a real delight to the most exacting housekeeper.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.

To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

WORLD'S FAIR A BIG SUCCESS.

A Big Crowd and a Reluctant Good Time for Many.

Another of the interesting fall events of Oxford County has passed to history and that is the North Waterford World's Fair. This fair attracts people from miles around who have lived in the near vicinity of North Waterford, or who have friends in that vicinity, and now that the "chariot of gladness" has come into use so universally it increases the attendance. It was said by good authority that the fair was attended Saturday by a larger crowd than usual and that there must have been between four and five thousand people scattered over the grounds.

Automobiles were filled into all the vacant lots about the square, the meeting house was actually banked with autos as well as the dwelling houses along the road.

The fair on Friday was not as largely attended as usual on account of the rain, but what was lacking in numbers on Friday was made up Saturday. The weather Saturday morning looked rather doubtful, but before noon the clouds cleared away and the remainder of the day was an ideal fall day and the scenery at its best.

The exhibits were shown in the school house and was smaller than usual. This was largely due to the weather. Only one Grange exhibited while arrangements were made for two, and the weather was not so favorable.

The Waterford Grange had one-half of the upper room at the school house. The exhibitors in Grange exhibit included George Abbott who had a large squash and turnips; L. L. Lebrooke, Hubbard squash; Mrs. Annie Hazelton, squash, summer squash and pumpkins; D. H. Lebrooke had a large pumpkin that weighed 30 pounds; Mrs. D. H. Lebrooke showed a display of canned goods, including peas, mustard pickles and pickles, and catsup; Effie Morse had canned goods including pickled, greens, beans and jelly; Ella Marston had canned string beans, raspberries, apples, jelly, rhubarb and peas.

G. B. Morse had a display of a few potatoes, including the Green Mountain, Early Forest, Mortgage Lifters, Early Rose, Six Weeks, Old Fashioned Pink Eye, which were fine looking vegetables and were a source of much comment. One lady remarked as she passed by that she guessed she'd better put a few in her pocket if she had any potatoes as her's were no good. She didn't do it though.

Charles Marston had a large head of cabbage, parsnips, and a large pumpkin; Mrs. E. H. Lebrooke had a display of fine looking grape marmalade, canned blueberries, blueberries, pears, pineapples and honey. S. S. Lebrooke showed some large Early Goshawk, a variety of seeds, including string beans, yellow eyes, red champion and white wax, also two large cucumbers.

One of the striking things about the Grange exhibit was the lack of apples. There were only a few in the exhibit and those were exhibited by George Abbott and G. B. Morse, the assumption being a great scarcity of this fruit.

An unusual sight for October 15, was a box of elegant raspberries which were picked October 8th. They were raised by E. O. French of Norway and were large luscious berries and took the eye of the most unobservant person.

The food exhibit included a roast chicken, pies, cakes, tarts and butter. The fancy articles that made up the Grange exhibit were a pair of good towels with Mexican work and trimmed with deep crocheted lace, an embroidered collar by Mary Deegan; a butter stone over 100 years old by Mrs. Rilla Marston, also two large embroidered centerpieces of solid embroidery; Mrs. S. L. Morse crocheted yoke, three of crocheted dollies, Mrs. Catherine Grover; Dorothy Newcomb had two crocheted edged handkerchiefs; Nora Abbott had two handsome centerpieces of tatting, also a crocheted dolly. Mrs. T. S. Morse had a white solid embroidered collar, a set of three knit dollies, a set of crocheted dollies, two crocheted dollies, a handkerchief with tatted edge, two crocheted collars and crocheted lace and a large centerpiece, crocheted in pineapple design.

The wall was decorated with quilts. One a tango and blue was exhibited by L. E. Neal, and a red and white one with large letter S. Rilla Marston had some fine drawn rugs and a large quilt, steps to the white house.

General Exhibit.

The general exhibit was shown in the lower room of the school house. On the fancy table were two white star knit dollies and two pink and blue crocheted dollies, a velvet sofa pillow by Mrs. Mabelle Rand of Lynchville; Mrs. W. E. Rice exhibited a pair of pink and gray crocheted socks, two large crocheted center pieces, a center piece of solid embroidery, a center piece of French and eyelet embroidery, a guest towel with crocheted lace insertion with initial, a pair of drawn work pillow slips with initial, a pair of drawn work pillow slips, a set of crocheted lace and insertion for pillow slips and a large center piece of solid embroidery.

Seven pairs of hand knit mittens and two pairs of foot stockings. Mrs. F. P. town of Norway. Mrs. Fred McAllister had a fine showing of crocheted work including a bureau scarf with Mexican work and crocheted lace, two corset cover yokes, handkerchiefs, lace trimmed, several designs of crocheted lace and two pillow slips with deep lace.

Mrs. Alice Freelove of Bridgton had a large showing of millinery and took many orders as well as making numerous sales.

Martha Black had a patch work quilt; Mrs. W. E. Rice a silk quilt; Coye McKee, two rugs; a child's silk quilt by Mrs. Isabelle Rand of Lynchville.

Among the vegetable exhibitors were found J. H. Jones, who had a large cabbage, pumpkin, squash and parsnips; R. M. McKee had the largest vegetable display including endive, potatoes, cabbage, squash, pumpkin, parsnips, beets, tomatoes, a variety of bean seeds of 12 varieties including Old fashioned Yellow Eyes, Telephone, California pea, Lazy Wife, California Sulphur pea, Cranberry, California bean, Agricultural Pole, Six weeks, South Green, Black Alexander, White Crescent. Mr. McKee raised some of each one of these varieties this past season.

Mrs. Georgia McAllister had a large pumpkin; Benj. L. D. Kimball a box of eight potatoes; Trumbull Bennett of North Albany had the exhibit that drew an exclamation from nearly every visitor, that being a large strawberry plant with a large number of large ripe berries as well as flowers and green berries. Ralph B. Knight exhibited three apples, the only ones exhibited in the general exhibit, which made a total of 25 apples for the whole fair.

E. G. Abbott of North Norway was the only art exhibitor. She had four hand painted sofa pillows, one with old fashioned wild roses, one with apple blossoms, another with daisies and the fourth with water lilies. These were done in oil. Among the display of pictures was an oil painting of a figure washing dishes, a snow scene and an auto race scene. There were also two oil paintings in water color of red roses and another of a canyon.

The poultry exhibit at the school house was small. John C. Grover of North Waterford exhibited three White Plymouth Rock pullets that were hatched June 21st. He also had four months old geese.

ALONG THE MIDWAY.

The midway with a raft of fairs was there as usual. With only a few exceptions the fairs were all from a distance. Here was an opportunity for men, women, and children to spend all kinds of money, but it was said by an interested party that this year people up and down the line were not spending a great deal.

Among some of the attractions, Zueza the wonderful girl, who was not a snake eater, but came from the wild tribe of Moros.

One of the interesting fortune tellers was a gypsy in true gypsy style, carrying a little gypsy infant in her arms. It is a question which attracted the most attention, the older or the younger.

All kinds of throwing games were there including throwing hoops over watches, busts, all kinds of jewelry, teddy bears, dolls, etc. There was throwing balls at cloth pins in place of nine pins, as well as the real game.

Many young ladies were earnestly engaged in having their fortune told by a palmist and some looked as if their whole future depended on what he said, so intent were they to catch every word the palmist said.

Dr. Glover's all American show was another attraction. The drawing card was a black bear seated on a small platform above the crowd. He seemed to enjoy life, seeing the crowd and eating precious morsels contributed to him. His attendant unscrewed a bottle of soft drink and put the end of the bottle in his mouth and down went the liquid. A passer by catching a glance at the performance, exclaimed to a friend nearby, "See him turn beer down that bears throat."

"Well," replied the friend, "He seems to be willing."

The plantation Jubilee Minstrels did much singing that attracted. Some of the listeners said they had just as soon hear them from the outside as to go into the tent, the managers probably thought differently had they heard the remarks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Kimball of Norway sold their usual line of watch fobs and bag check and jewelry.

Wellington Twitwell of Oxford was in attendance with his fruit. He also sold hot coffee, frankfurters and cigars.

Scattered up and down the midway were booths and tents where hot dogs, hot coffee and all kinds of soft drinks were for sale.

The center of attraction was the Merry-go-round, which was run by Linwood Kimball's crew. The old as well as the young enjoyed a ride on the teetering horses at a good rate of speed. The sounds of the Merry-go-round organs pealing forth over the crowded grounds announced early in the day, that the World's Fair was again in progress.

HORSES AND CATTLE.

A number of horses were on exhibition the first day. The drawing of horses took place Saturday forenoon and caused a wave of excitement in the 2800 class. There were three entries, horses of John Wesley of Mason, Harry Brown of North Waterford and David Thurston of Norway. All went well until Harry Brown's team started to pull, driven by Sam Bay, when the horses started and run the load down and started back when one of the horses dropped dead.

On Friday a number of cattle were exhibited and Saturday the drawing was held. E. B. Hersey and R. K. Morrill of Norway had six yoke. These being the largest exhibitors.
